Dear Sirs:

My name is Jonathan Greene. I am a citizen of Buncombe County as well as a retired employee of the Buncombe County Tax Department. I have read online in the media that friends of conspirators of the management financial scandal within Buncombe County have written to Judges in regards to their character in hopes of a lighter sentence. I also have read where those involved have taken deals in order to lighten their sentence. This is not one of those letters.

Wanda Greene, Mandy Stone, Jon Creighton, Michael Greene and now Ellen Frost are the only ones the public knows have had cases filed against them. However, this leaves out those who reportedly took retention bonuses, most of whom have since retired. There were a reported eleven (11) of them that accepted these bonuses. Unnecessary bonuses as that they were all within retirement in the coming months or years and were in no way going to leave their posts. Those pay spikes were reported as income. I contacted the retirement system myself because knowing that I had left due to a disability I was receiving half of what I made as an employee. The thought of these people receiving ill gotten gains and the pay spike effectively giving them a retirement at their full pay was and is an insult. The retirement system informed me that they were aware of the pay spikes and that they did not include them in their retirement. That the county will receive invoices to pay for those spikes. And will until those retirement benefits are no longer required.

But you do not only have those eleven (11) who took those retention bonuses, you also have their replacements they hand picked for when they retired. Some of whom do not meet qualifications or educational requirements of the job they had previously, much less the bump up to a position of power with a considerable pay bump as well.

Many of the citizens of Buncombe County heavily doubt that all the conspirators have been captured and are being brought to justice. The ones that are...have the nerve to ask for delays in trials, delays in sentencing, special rights to see or visit people, to go on vacations and now to ask for no prison time?!? Please believe me when I say that this is what goes to show people that people with money (albeit stolen money) can get away with anything. They shouldn't be afforded lighter penalties, but be punished to the fullest extent of the law. They have schemed to steal taxpayer monies, and in cases, some even made the appearance of trying to abscond with it. There should be no deals. No perks. No leniency for their embezzlement of taxpayer funds for which they were supposed to be the stewards.

As a retired employee, I can attest to rumors that were spread for years about the unknown waste of money that was occurring. Appointing employees to created jobs until they were able to be placed in one. I myself can attest to being forced to work overtime and was told to not report that time on my timesheet by a supervisor. Receiving no monetary compensation or paid time off in lieu of those hours. And when I say hours, I mean the equivalent of a month's worth of overtime pay or leave time. The second time it occurred, I complained to then County Manager Greene. I had a meeting with her and she informed me that the action was a federal crime and asked if my intent was to sue. I explained no, I wanted reimbursed and not to be asked to do that ever again. I barely made it back to my office before being called to the supervisor's office and screamed at by the supervisor because he was mad I had embarrassed him and the director. Being told that their budget...taxpayer money...was theirs to do with as they pleased. And over the coming weeks, was shoved into a different job as a punishment. Being admonished due to unsubstantiated claims that I was unprofessional...but when I asked for specifics...and to be faced with my accuser...he stuttered and backtracked his comments and made them non-specific and even more vague. There are a vast amount of instances where those accused and the ones that took their place habitually made employees lives miserable and eventually terminated them. Many of whom they forced into resigning saying, a firing would look really bad on your record.

These people abused their employees and were abusive towards taxpayers. Even to the point of calling them customers instead of taxpayers.

So, in writing all of this, what I am asking is that the wrong doings of these people dictate their fates. Not the supposed good deeds. Not the feigned attempt of showing their gentler sides. But punishing the side of them that enabled, actively sought after and promoted their illegal activities and ill-gotten gains. They knew when they had their jobs that such impropriety would justify them losing their retirement...yet they persisted.

Thank you very much for your time.
